

The Desires of My Heart Answered

CHERYL KAYE WISNER'S MONTHLY UPDATE

JULY 2014

Dear Family and Friends,

A few years ago, God laid a deep desire on my heart to do ministry work with people and to be a disciple who makes disciples. I wrestled with and prayed about this for quite a while because it didn't seem like the passions of my heart were being met. It seemed like the jobs and the ministries in which I was involved lacked this key component: people.

After I graduated high school in 2012, an amazing opportunity opened up for me to start working with Justice For All. I didn't know what I was getting into, but God led and I followed.

Now, two years later, I am seeing how my prayers are being answered. Through my work with JFA, I am blessed to work with all sorts of people. Not only am I encouraged by my co-workers and the supporters of JFA, but I get to meet many pro-life people through JFA's Abortion: From Debate to Dialogue seminars. I also interact with people from all over the world through outreach events. God has planned for me to be in ministry for this season of my life, and I am very thankful.

JFA also has a unique mentoring component as part of its training program. I train other pro-life people to have truthful, yet loving, conversations about abortion. I am able to do this because I have been trained well by the many JFA staff who have mentored me. Those who have mentored me also have been mentored. In essence, God has answered my prayer and put me in a position in which I can be a disciple who makes disciples.

Yes, our focus is on teaching about the topic of abortion, but I have many opportunities to learn from my co-workers about our faith in Jesus and to share what I have learned with those whom God has given me to teach. My faith and my work with JFA are so intertwined that they are inseparable.

Last month, two groups of summer interns came through our Wichita office. We focused on training them through a seminar and outreach experience, and then provided them with many opportunities to have additional outreach conversations. It was definitely a highlight of my summer! I enjoyed coming alongside other people and helping to guide them through the process of becoming good pro-life ambassadors. There were times during the internship when I needed counsel and wisdom on how to be a good mentor. Again, the JFA staff came around me and mentored me on how to be a better trainer. I am extremely grateful for their wisdom and impact on my life. I hope, by God's grace, that I have been a good friend and mentor to those who were placed in my care.

Thank you for supporting me in my work with JFA. God has used you not only to provide funds for me to do this missions work, but also to uplift me through your prayers and encouragement. I look forward to the plan God has for me... and for you too!

Blessings and Love,

Cheryl Kaye

Results of My Support Raising Efforts:

- I have reached the point where I can start working full-time with JFA. I plan to start this new schedule at the beginning of the fall semester.
- As of July 15th, I have reached approximately 88% of my final support-raising goal. Praise the Lord!
- Please prayerfully consider joining my support team. I would love to talk to you about what this means.
- As the time approaches for me to begin full-time work with JFA, I am filled with excitement!

Thank you for your support, prayers, and encouragement!

Read what two of JFA's 2014 summer interns said about their internship experience:

"One of the most beautiful things about Justice For All is that the skills you learn apply to not only defending the lives of the unborn, but also to sharing the gospel with the person right in front of you. God has used JFA to change my life. You can't come to [JFA's training program] and leave unchanged."

- Carson Banks

"After this week's internship program, I now feel much more comfortable to talk with other people on the issue of abortion. And, not only that, the program also taught me a certain approach to have dialogue with people on the matter of faith."
