

Justice for All Pro-Life Camp in Texas

Three of the Highlights that Made it Rock

In early November our JFA team traveled to Texas for our pro-life camp for homeschool students from Oklahoma and Texas. Our outreach venue was the University of North Texas (UNT). Below are three highlights from the week.

Jacob Nels (our missionary from Georgia) and his wife Brit were able to speak and mentor in the camp seminar. They also came to the UNT campus and set a great example for all our trainees.

Brit, a mother of four, brought great insight and wisdom to the UNT students. Jacob, who has been presenting our work to many groups in Atlanta, was able to share his gifts with our staff and volunteers and continue to grow as a speaker and mentor! They combined to present one of our main sections during this year's camp (pictured above).

During the outreach I spoke with several UNT students who were very gracious and transparent. In fact, two of them spoke with me about their journeys of faith, their fears, and many of their frustrations with life. Often we meet students who are very hardened and unwilling to even consider a different viewpoint, but I was pleasantly surprised by several of the conversations with students. Billy, pictured to the left, is a freshman who reconsidered his view about abortion and Christianity during our talk.

Our camp brought together pro-lifers from many places and backgrounds, and allowed several families to reach out together to the UNT community. Several of last year's participants brought a friend or sibling this year. It was such a joy to have a mom and her son in my mentor group as well as the sister of someone I mentored last year. Our group picture (right) was cool also!

** Don't miss the enclosed sheet with quotes from 2012 and prayer requests for this next year. ****

Defending Human Value together,

Jonathan Wagner

Jonathan Wagner