

My Favorite Quotes from 2013

“The outreach put me into a great position to get out of my comfort zone and rely on the power of Christ to overcome fear.” — Ethan, student from Wisconsin

“I’ve really struggled adding compassion to truth and this (JFA’s training program) helped me tremendously.” — Anthony, student in Kansas

“It made me feel awesome to know how many people [on college campuses] are open to thinking about being pro-life.” — Skylar, student in Colorado

“Super good advice, especially concerning being civil and encouraging, focusing on dialogue instead of debate [in conversations], and the ultimate goal of finding truth, not winning an argument.” — Arielle, student in California

“I really appreciated the depth and level of not just intelligence but compassion and desire to really engage in conversation on the [abortion] topic.” — Bekah, volunteer from Colorado

My sister Joanna (in center facing camera) and I (right side) in action at Pittsburg State University during our first ever outreach at that school! We had great conversations and opportunities to challenge the campus about the injustice of abortion alongside 17 volunteers. Chelsea Duncan (pink jacket) worked tirelessly to make the outreach project happen this semester!

We had several seminars in Wichita this year. In this photo, intern Holly Meath (left) models dialogue with Georgia-based staff member Jacob Nels. This seminar served the Wichita State University pro-life club by preparing volunteers for their outreach in November.

“I am so amazed and very sobered at all the information I have been given. I definitely want to take this seriously.” — Elisabeth, student from New York

“It was good to get information about abortion so that if it comes up I can present my opinions with wisdom and good knowledge.” — Lacey, student in Colorado

Defending human value together,

Jonathan Wagner
Jonathan Wagner