

"Perhaps it Was the Picture"

A recent email reminds me how important it is to SHOW truth

Kim's response was short but sweet!

I try to send a short email to those I've had memorable conversations with during Exhibit outreaches, but I typically don't expect much in return.

Several weeks ago I emailed Kim following the Justice For All outreach in Fresno, CA.

Her response was among the most special I've ever received in four years of pro-life work.

I wrote, "I really appreciated our talk out by the JFA exhibit a week ago. You were so genuine and respectful... Did you feel challenged by anything in our conversation? I can't wait to continue learning what you believe!"

When Kim's response came through my inbox my eyes lit up. It was concrete confirmation that she was actually thinking about our conversation.

Kim replied, "You are the first person to make me see the other side of abortion, [and] perhaps it was the picture that really got my attention."

Kim may not have yet completely switched her view but it is clear that she was challenged by our presentation and conversation, and she is honestly sorting through the evidence.

Visuals convey the truth in a way words never could.

Her clear admission that the pictures of fetal development and abortion got her attention motivates me to work even harder.

It reconfirms my desire (and the desire of JFA) to continue using graphic visuals at the right time, with the proper attitude, and with sound preparation.

It will take an eternity for the unborn to defend themselves

I was recently asked to contribute to a pro-life podcast called "Life Report" and our audio just came out a few days ago. See the link in my prayer section below.

Our whole staff is aiming to learn to teach the entire "Abortion: From Debate to Dialogue" seminar. Pray for me as I memorize new sections, including one that teaches our volunteers the three good qualities of an ambassador.

Training seminar participants in Fresno, CA (April 2010)

Podcast in Fresno, CA with Maureen McKinley and Josh Brahm

Our next staff training days are scheduled for July 19 and 20. Pray for our training department mentors, Stephen Wagner and Trent Horn, as they help all of our staff.

As I help prepare for 2010-2011 training events, I've also continued to mentor three people (John Michener, Jacob Nels and Jacob Burow) in their support raising efforts. Join me in praying that each of them can make significant progress this summer.

Your support helps me reach people like Kim—On the college campus, in our seminars, and in the community.

Praises and Prayer Requests for July 2010:

- I visit the Reclaiming America For Christ conference this week in Oklahoma. There I'll have opportunities to speak with potential donors, volunteers, and trainees!
- Praise God for guiding our use of tools like fetal development photos and true pictures of abortion. They help people see the reality of how violent abortion is to the unborn.
- Pray for Kim! I hope that our conversation can continue over email. I sent her another email recently but have not heard back yet.
- Praise God for using me in a recent Podcast. I'm thankful to be able to share my stories with so many people around the country. Listen here: <http://blog.prolifepodcast.net/2010/06/24/interview-justice-for-all-trainers-part-1.aspx>
