Teach or Talk...or Do Both

JFA's mission is to train thousands to make abortion unthinkable, one person at a time. We have two simple ways to show that we are making progress on that mission. We must teach others to talk to pro-choice people about abortion, or we ourselves need to talk to pro-choice people about abortion. Sometimes our speaking events end up accomplishing both of these goals. Below is a sample of reflections from high school and college students who attended a presentation, workshop, or seminar this fall. Some of these students felt prepared to have conversations on their own. For others, the content of our presentations made abortion unthinkable in their minds.

The video showed today really sealed the deal in my head that abortion is 100% murder. It's not that I wasn't pro-life, I just believed it [be]cause I was told to. This video helped me form a complete opinion...that abortion is never the answer—very good presentation!

—High School Student, Presentation, St. Cecilia's Catholic High School

I am pro-life, and I have marched in Washington D.C. with the pro-life march the past two years. I enjoyed the experience so much, but [I] never knew how to communicate with others. Thank YOU for teaching me how to talk about pro-life to people who are pro-choice.

—High School Student, Workshop, Norfolk Catholic High School

This presentation gave me a new outlook. I wasn't convinced about being pro-life. I thought it was a Catholic thing. Now it's also scientific. The pictures, videos, and stories really helped.

This presentation was very good. My friend went from being pro-choice to pro-life from this.

—High School Student, Workshop, Norfolk Catholic High School

This was very helpful! I knew abortion was wrong and kind of how to [talk about] it, but I don't think I could've made as convincing of points without this [seminar]. Thank you so much for sharing.

—High School Student, Seminar, St. Cecilia's Catholic High School

When people bring up [abortion], I get really nervous and don't know what to say. Thank you so much for helping [me] figure out what to say.

—Hastings College Student, Workshop, St. Michael's Catholic Church

Ultimately, we want our trainees to not only KNOW how to talk about abortion, but actually TALK with pro-choice people. To help the trainee to get active, JFA trainers lead by example. We complement our "classroom" instruction with real-life practical experience as trainees come to outreach events and observe us conversing with pro-choice people. We don't simply tell them how to have conversations, we show them! In the enclosed collage, I share pictures of some of the people with whom I've had the pleasure to speak at various outreach events this year.

Thank you to everyone on my mailing list who already support my work financial on a regular basis. You are helping me make these conversations happen! If you are not on my financial support team, please consider giving a year-end gift or joining my regular support team. Don't hesitate to give me a call at (316) 210-4376.

2016 Conversations Photo Collage

Each photo represents a personal conversation that I had with either a group or an individual this year. Thank you for your support of my work which enables me to have these conversations and make an impact in the lives of these people and in the lives of unborn children! Many of these pictures show me in conversation with pro-choice people. Some are with pro-life people. For the pro-life people, I don't simply give them a high five and send them on their way. Instead, I challenge them and give them tools so they can get active defending the unborn!
