

Paul Kulas 2015 Photo Collage

Each photo represents a personal conversation that I had with either a group or an individual this year. I took care not to include more than one picture of each conversation. In addition, I have included the names of people I spoke with personally. Some of the names are represented by the people in the pictures, but some are not. When I looked back at these photos and names, I was really pleased to see how many people I was able to interact with this year. I had many more conversations that are not depicted here and so did our other staff and volunteers. Thank you for helping to make this happen! Please join me in lifting each of the persons depicted below up in prayer.
