

To Whom It May Concern:

This letter is for the highest recommendation of Justice for All's programs and educational out reach. Justice for All changed my own life and made me a better or more accurately a kinder teacher.

My name is James Lewis and I am religion, philosophy and logic teacher at Kapaun Mt. Carmel Catholic High School and a theology adjunct at Newman University. I have had the honor of bringing Justice for All into my classroom for many years now. I have also been out in the field with them at college campuses.

Justice for All does not alienate my pro-choice students, but the presentations open their hearts and minds. My pro-life students become more charitable and still more courageous after working with this program.

The most important work that Justice for All accomplishes is teaching respect for All. I.e. we need to seek both the dignity the unborn and those who might be our "enemy." The key to dialogue seems to be the listening to and genuine interest in the well being of the other. That offer of respect and interest allows trust and solidarity even between those who fundamentally disagree on nearly every issue. Justice of All teaches that it is just to seek the truth with love.

Sincerely,

James Lewis III
