

Rebecca's Reflections

113 N. Martinson—Wichita, KS 67203—316.683.6426—Rebecca@jfaweb.org

March 2011

If you were a mouse in the corner...(continued)

Last month, you saw what happens when JFA trains high school students. This month image you eavesdropped on my conversations. If you were a mouse with me next to the Justice For All Exhibit in Arizona you would have heard...

"I don't like abortion, but it's not a right we can take away from women."
-*Micah, Arizona State University

...75 minutes later, *Micah and I discussed the existence of God.
...2 hours after the start of the conversation we exchanged e-mails in order to continue our dialogue.

(my response) "If a woman has a two year old child she doesn't want, can she kill that child? Is that a right we can take away from her? If so, why?"
(*Micah) "Yes, that is a right we can take away because the two year old is a human being. (Micah paused to think) Oh...I see why you feel the way you do. If the unborn is human it should be protected like the two year old. But is it really human in the beginning stages of development?"
(45 minutes later, *Micah) "Ok, my mind has changed about abortion. Thanks for not bringing God into the subject."

(follow the mouse to the next page)

*Name changed for privacy.

“It is your opinion that the unborn is human at fertilization but each woman can choose for herself when she thinks it is a human being. If I want to get an abortion, I can.”

-*Melissa, University of Arizona Student

“I’m so sorry I left the conversation upset and sorry I said those horrible things. I can’t believe I said I could do that.”

- *Melissa (student pictured above) returned to apologize

“Just because it isn’t a life you want to live doesn’t mean it isn’t a life worth living.”

“What these students are saying means that I am not valuable. I was born early. I was not fully developed. A matter of a week determined whether I could walk or not, and I can not, but I’m still human. I’m still valuable. Our level of development does not determine our value.”

- *Kendra, a young woman in a wheel chair due to cerebral palsy, University of Arizona Student

*Kendra heard students in the background explain on an open mic why the level of development determines the value of a human.

She broken-heartedly shared her story with me and then shared her story on the open mic.

These are just a few of the conversations I had at the University of Arizona and Arizona State University.

Please continue to pray for each of these students as well as for my special requests below. Thanks!

Rebecca J. Paschke

Praise and Prayer Requests:

- Give thanks for the healthy delivery of my newest nephew Benjamin Albert on March 24th. He was 20 1/4 inches long and weighed 9 lbs!
- Pray for *Andrew, a gentleman I met at Arizona State University who has two abortions in his past. He has dealt with years of depression and is seeking healing.
- Pray for sufficient energy during this spring’s travel schedule.

Here is the rest of the Spring 2011 Schedule:

March 2-10th	University of Georgia Outreach Training Partners: Our Lady of Mercy High School Fellowship Christian Schools University of Georgia Pro-Life Club
March 25-31st	University of Texas San Antonio Training Partners: Bracken Christian High School Students for the Right to Life
April 5-13th	Auraria College of Denver Training Partners: Dayspring Christian School Faith Christian Academy Iasis Christ Fellowship Church Focus Leadership Insitute Auraria Pro-Life
April 28-May 5th	Fresno State College (California) Training Partners: Right to Life of Central California (RTLCC)