Dear Family and Friends,

The summer is flying by quickly as it has been full of meetings and presentations in preparation for the full-time pro-life work I will starting this fall. Below is an update on the status of my support-raising and another personal story from my experience during the May 2009 Mission in California. (There just isn't enough room to include all the stories in one letter!)

One Student, Two Days, Impact to Last a Lifetime!

During the Exhibit Outreach at the University of California San Diego, I encountered a student named Juan. We discussed the immorality of abortion for about 45 minutes. After Juan had expressed why it wasn't immoral to kill an unborn child, I explained how logic could break down his defense. He replied, "Look, I know my logic doesn't always follow through, but...Ok, I need to go." Later that day Juan talked to another JFA staff member for about an hour. The following day he returned again to ask more questions. We talked for another 30 minutes. He asked "What is your goal in bringing this "graphic" exhibit to campus?" After explaining that "We are encouraging people to see the truth about abortion and engage in intellectual conversations about it," he replied, "But this Exhibit doesn't make people want to talk. It didn't make me want to talk about abortion!" When I politely inquired "But Juan, what have we been doing the past two days?" He paused and replied "Well, I guess I'm not a good example. I don't have anymore questions."

Please pray for my efforts to complete my support raising. I am still aiming (Lord willing) to move to Wichita by the end of September. Before I can move and begin my full-time work in Wichita, I still need to raise about 67% of my monthly* support. For those of you who have already contributed—THANK YOU.

UPDATED SUPPORT RAISING STATUS

- 18 partners under the age of 30 have given a combined total of over $5300.
- As of August 1st, I've reached 33% of my support goal for my 2-year internship.
- A dozen support team members have been referred to me by other supporters. Thank you to all of you who have supported me not only financially, but who have also provided me with names of others who are interested in pro-life work!

If you are not yet part of my monthly support team, please prayerfully consider joining!

Defending human value together,

Rebecca Haschke
