Dear Friend,

When I first attended Justice For All's Abortion: From Debate To Dialogue seminar in 2013, I never imagined that at some point I would actually be the one teaching parts of the seminar. Just two weeks ago, in front of 58 attendees at Blessed Sacrament Church in Wichita, Kansas, I guided the group through our One Central Question section which teaches people to simplify abortion conversations by focusing on the question, "What is the unborn?"

During the past year, my life has undergone dramatic changes. I began 2016 working and going to school at my local college, but my heart was unsettled. I had the nagging feeling that I was being called to lead a life very different from the one I was living. I began asking God, "Is there more?" My answer came when I attended PULSE Leadership Institute, a pro-life apologetics camp hosted by Louisiana Right To Life. There I met Justice For All. I was able to take the time to really get to know trainers from JFA, and they encouraged me to apply for JFA's fall internship. Fast-forward through a month of discernment, prayer, and trust in the Lord, and I found myself in August in Wichita, Kansas, beginning to work full-time in the pro-life movement.

JFA's mission is to train thousands to make abortion unthinkable for millions, one person at a time. Through JFA training, pro-life volunteers become active advocates, creating dialogue with pro-choice advocates that balances truth and love, helping them change their minds. In the past three months with JFA, I've participated in many outreach events (pictured). In fact, when my fellow intern, Clare, and I realized that we had no outreach scheduled during one week, we grabbed a survey clipboard, and we went to Wichita State University to put into practice JFA's priority of starting conversations with pro-choice advocates and helping them think differently about abortion.

The Director of JFA encouraged me to apply for a two-year internship, and I jumped at the chance. I was accepted, and so what was a one-semester internship has turned into a two-year internship commitment. I can't wait to begin my work with JFA, which will include conversing with many pro-choice students on college campuses and training pro-life advocates to do the same. I'll become a certified JFA presenter and trainer, mentoring pro-life advocates through both parts of JFA's training process, including interactive seminars (Seat Work) and outreach (Feet Work).

How can we save the unborn and their parents from the horror of abortion? Have you thought about the fact that many are working full-time to destroy innocent children through abortion? My desire is to work full-time to save those same lives from abortion.

To help me in this mission, I am looking for people who will come alongside me by investing in my work as an intern with Justice For All. Like all full-time trainers at JFA, I am responsible for raising my entire salary, and I have to raise about $3,300 per month. I believe that the Lord has been preparing me for this mission for a long time—possibly my entire life. Your financial support will empower me as I step out in faith. Would you consider joining my financial support team by committing to give a monthly or annual gift? Special gifts help as well.
